ANCA SANDU

Fundraising Manager

"Casa Bună" Association, Bucharest

Development & Fundraising
Salt Lake City, UT
November 2022

Before she worked in a social NGO, Anca thought she was a PR and communication specialist. After more than seven years of volunteering for social causes she decided to leave her corporate life to become something she would have never guessed: a good fundraiser. Anca discovered that the reason of this hidden professional side was that, when she believes so strongly in a cause, she will use all her skills, even the ones she isn't aware of. Helping people, and especially children in need, showed Anca that she could be a social worker, a community manager, a fundraiser, a driver of a truck or a carrier.

"I went in the Open World program without any expectations. I told myself that any learning experience is useful and that something good must come out of it. But I didn't get excited. I had been to the USA many times, the trip itself was not something out of the ordinary. American culture was quite familiar to me and I didn't expect any surprises. But I had many surprises, all pleasant: the warmth of the welcome in Washington and Salt Lake City, the care for our comfort and the efficiency, the quality of the people I interacted with, the wonderful host. I came back with a lot of ideas and a changed perspective. I believe that Open World is a very generous opportunity, which can ignite sparks of good in the civil society."

"The Open World experience grew me both on a personal level and on a professional level. I learned a lot about the American Culture, about the way they think about things and the US system. I really liked the fact that I visited a host community with a smaller group of Romanians, during which we had time to learn about what each of us do in our NGOs and how we can grow the organizations we are part of. I would definitely like to develop strategic relationships and partnerships in the near future! Thank you for this extraordinary experience!"

"America is the country where you can see implemented what we only dream of and think it's impossible to achieve. Participating in the Open World program, you have the opportunity to meet organizations, communities, people whose values and life experiences can inspire you and show you that anything you dream of can be realized. Why? Because they have already been implementing it for 20, 30 or over 60 years. Of course, they can still polish and improve many aspects, and the most important thing is that they are willing to learn in order to evolve towards an even better version. It inspires me so much that I want to come back soon. Thank you for this opportunity to be part of the Open World program."

MELANIA MEDELEANU

Director

"Zi de Bine" Association, Bucharest

Development & Fundraising
Salt Lake City, UT
November 2022

Melania Medeleanu is the founder of Zi de BINE Association, which for almost 3 years has been implementing monthly projects in areas such as education, health, environment, social inclusion. Melania also supports organizations with significant impact in society (e.g. Magic Association – which, under her coordination, developed from a small camp for children with oncological diseases up to a series of programs that offer material and emotional support to families in which an oncological diagnosis occurs). In this capacity she has developed projects and programs that have improved the lives of thousands of people in the last 10 years. With a journalistic background, Melania has made her projects publicly visible. Under her coordination, the projects have benefited from funding exceeding 10 million euro.

Through all her activity so far, Melania Medeleanu has proven to be a leader who inspires, motivates and involves people in their mission to change society for the better.

"What impressed me the most in this trip is the tradition of volunteerism and social involvement. The extra years of American democracy compared to the young Romanian democracy translate especially into this type of involvement in the community, which you meet at every step. On the one hand, it seemed sad to me that we are so far away. On the other hand, it is clear to me that we are on this path and that each generation that follows us is more and more involved and more willing to contribute to the community. At the same time, looking at the struggles of American organizations to obtain funds to support their beneficiaries, I realized that our challenges are not much different and, in some places, the shortages have made us more creative in terms of fundraising. But it was necessary to fly overseas to understand this better. Thank you, Open World, for opening my world:)"
